The Miracle of the Wooden Shoes written by Deborah Pace Rowley, Illustrated by Dan Burr. What would you do to create a miracle for another family? Walter needed one. Times were hard and his father was very ill and had lost his job. Walter knew the other children in his German town would be placing their wooden shoes on their doorsteps for St. Nicholas to fill with toys and candy. This year, however, there was little reason for Walter to think his shoes would be filled. But the next morning, he gasp and his mother cried. There on his doorstep were Walter's shoes brimming with candles and a scroll that reads "I am the light of the world" (John 8:12) for many nights the miracle repeats itself, then one morning, Walter and his family receive the best gift of all. To find out what it is, you must read this book with your family, and pass the miracle along to others.

Highwayman of Tanglewood by Marcia Lynn McClure

If you love a good romance this one is for you. To Faris Shayhan, a chambermaid, the future stretched long and desolate before her, until she gained new employment with Lady Maranada Rockrimmon of Loch Loland Castle. It was here that she first met the man of her dreams, of all of our dreams. The Highwayman of Tanglewood, dressed in black and astride his might steed, the brave Highwayman stole Faris heart...as well as a kiss. But should she give her heart to a man who was encircled in mystery as thick and as secretive as time itself? A wonderful way to spend a rainy day curled up by a fire, dreaming of a far away land with Faris and the Highwayman.

Broken Things to Mend by Jeffery R. Holland. This collection of some of Elder Holland's most memorable recent talks inspires us to maintain hope and to revert our attention on the one Person who has the power to heal us. Broken Things to Mend provides a stirring reminder that, if we come unto the Savior, He will make us whole. On those days when you are feeling down hearted or distressed, Elder Holland's good cheer and incites will offer you the sweetest remedy of all, to come unto Christ and receive "the strength that comes from experiencing firsthand the majesty of His touch." While talking about many subjects including modesty, prayer, the tongue of angels, and one of my favorites, "Let Virtue Garnish thy Thoughts Unceasingly". This book will give you a lot to think about and like a conference talk you will have a list of things to work on and an outline on how to work on them. A wonderful book for all.
